Fair is not always equal

Three words – sameness, fairness and dignity – that help us include people well.

#fairness

#respectfulrelationships

#inclusion

#dignity

Everyone in a group chat gets exactly the same message, but one person cannot use it. Is that fair?

You can always pass, write your answer privately, or use a made-up example.

1 Corinthians 12:22–25

“Those parts of the body that seem to be weaker are indispensable ... But God has put the body together, giving greater honour to the parts that lacked it, so that there should be no division in the body, but that its parts should have equal concern for each other.”

1 Corinthians 12:22–25, New International Version (NIV)

CHRISTIAN CONNECTION

Fair is not the same as identical — God gives greater honour where it is needed so that nobody is left out. Treating people with dignity means noticing different needs and adjusting, quietly and without fuss.

REFLECT

Which changes would truly protect dignity in this group?

Map one fact from the case beside same, fair and dignity.

Sort the six cards, then design one fair change that names who does what next.

1

Move on quickly and hope Priya asks again later

2

Say "Everyone gets the same" and leave it there

3

Post the plan as written text as well as voice notes

4

Let Priya skip the games so nobody has to wait

5

Ask Priya privately what would help her join in 6

Change the rule for everyone: plan in pairs

Test each card: is it honest? Does it include Priya? Does it protect her dignity?

“Fair is not always equal when ...because dignity means ...”

Write this one privately — you don't have to share it.

TAKEAWAY

One fair change can include someone without putting them on display.
